JOE FAFARD

Joe Fafard is an internationally acclaimed sculptor and printmaker who is best known for his endless study of bovine creatures.

Joe Fafard was born September 2, 1942 in Saint Marthe, Saskatchewan. His interest in drawing and sculpting began at home where he often retreated from his large family to quietly nurture his artistic talent. Following high school, Joe attended the University of Manitoba where he received his Bachelor of Fine Arts degree in 1966. He then moved to the United States where he attended Pennsylvania State College and received his Master of Fine Arts degree in 1968. Joe returned to Canada and taught sculpture for six years at the University of Saskatchewan in Regina. In 1974, Joe Fafard began to sculpt full time in a studio in Pense, Saskatchewan. It was here that he portrayed many of the townsfolk and put this little town and himself on the contemporary Canadian art map. Joe currently resides in Regina and continues to be a prolific and highly successful artist.

Joe has exhibited his work widely in Canada, the United States and in Europe, and is included in many private, public and corporate collections. Joe Fafard has received many awards, including the Order of Canada in 1981 and the Royal Architectural Institute of Canada Allied Arts Award in 1987.

The print "BARB" shows Joe's expressive use of line in his typically metaphorical imagery. This newborn calf is full of natural wonderment, yet is hemmed in by barbed wire as a flock of crows fly freely overhead. Joe has produced many prints throughout his career. This five colour serigraph shows the subtlety of his approach to printmaking, creating the illusion of a soft conte drawing with progressive layers of ink. When commenting on why he chose the screen printing process for this image Joe said "I'd do a litho, but that would be too easy". "BARB" is a classic image for Joe, representing his constant challenge with both image and process.

The "Artists for Kids" Trust

The "Artists for Kids" Trust was established in 1990 through the generous cooperation among some of Canada's finest Artists and the North Vancouver Board of School Trustees. Its mission is to build a permanent trust fund through the sale of fine art prints and to establish a permanent collection of art work by Canada's best artists. The "Trust" provides on-going enrichment opportunities and scholarships for Fine Arts students in North Vancouver schools. Artists supporting the program now include Bill Reid, Gordon Smith, Jack Shadbolt, Robert Bateman, Joe Fafard and Gathie Falk.
